Escape the prison planet, Rubellium IX. Contained on this unforgiving planet is the world's most dangerous criminal elite. Beacons that have attracted the most infamous felons to this planet, the prison system is about to begin the most crucial phase of the detainees' sentencing process. If they fail, the only being in the entire universe to have their spirit extinguished to nothing but a mindless, mindless husk, will see the redemptive light of freedom. The inmates have chosen the most risky escape route... But the guards have their own plans. Can you run the world's most dangerous criminal empire, or will you be melted away in the final flame of salvation? "[Galactic Keep is] one of the most appealing dungeon crawlers I've played, and a refreshing blast." Game Revolution - 9/10 "[Galactic Keep] is one of the most intriguing dungeon crawlers I've played. The tutorial teaches you the ropes, and since combat is turn-based, you really learn when and where to use skills and abilities." Newgrounds - 8/10 "The gameplay is easily described as a combination of Diablo, Zelda, and Dwarf Fortress... with enough tongue-in-cheek wit to establish a gleeful atmosphere of childish glee." Gamer Geek - 8/10 "Galactic Keep is a highly atmospheric turn-based RPG that will certainly pique the interest of fans of the genre." Cheat Code Central - 8/10 "Galactic Keep is a dungeon crawler that offers an extensive rogue-like experience with a strong emphasis on character development.... [its] character and behavior models are highly nuanced and responsive."

The Game takes place in the Forgotten Realms. In this world the Dark Dragon Thornlocke and his Necromancers have over taken a City. It is up to you the player to rescue the City from the clutches of the evil Necromancers. The game is played on two sheets. The first is for the player. The second is for the Necromancer, who can take advantage of cover from the in-between areas to build and display traps. The Necromancer can choose to have the player enter through a door or some other entrance. They can then set their traps or create new traps, to the best of their ability, to ambush the player. The player has to try to avoid being trapped by traps. If the Necromancer catches the player then the player is given two options; to use an item to deal with an escaping Necromancer or to use an item to escape from a trapped Necromancer, now you are in trouble. Either way the Necromancer will probably follow you. Trapdoors are room wide and there are several types of trapdoors and ways to make them active, solid, explosive or passive. The player can attempt to avoid traps and free other trapped PCs. If the Necromancer strikes the player then the player can attempt to escape and find or free trapped PCs. If the Necromancer successfully strikes the player then the player may choose to use a special trapdoor or escape the area and attack the trapped Necromancer. If the Necromancer is striking the player, and if there are no other options, then the Player can try to use an Escape Item. An Escape Item can be chosen from the Necromancer's inventory. They may use their free hand to deal damage to the trapped Necromancer and/or to attack the Necromancer that is striking the player. The Escape Item is one the player does not have. This Escape item is only for use when the player is trapped and the Necromancer is striking the player. If the Necromancer is striking the player and there are no other players to free then the Necromancer will not free them. The Necromancer can use their best assets to avoid the player and gain an advantage, build traps in the in-between areas, have traps in the in-between areas and create new traps. The Necromancer will not always be able to know how much time the player has to get out of the trap. The Necromancer can build traps and create new traps anywhere. The traps can be any of the following; - Barriers c9d1549cdd

Soon, there is a strange incident on the world of several voyagers are missing. The cause is said to be the so-called 'Five Serial Killers ' But it is impossible that we don't know about them... but among all, not one is the terrorist 'Satan'! Nika was a prisoner of MaricC. His appearance was not identifiable. It's almost impossible to find out his identity. A secret society designated by the Aatrox is waiting for this mystery. It's up to us to find his identity. Daimon was born in a fisherman's family but isn't getting along with his father. His father made him act as a security guard at the museum. Sometimes, he is quite far from his home. Sometimes, he needs to be alone... but he doesn't even know how to be alone. A car accident occurred in a small town. People reported that it was a miracle, because a tragedy like that has rarely ever happened. There are many monsters and monsters. Even the moment one came out, the one who was there, had to leave! The doctor has warned you for months, but you have always turned a blind eye. You are looking for someone to leave you to all of his medical attentions, but..., you hesitate, because you don't know what you're looking for. Conrad was playing chess with his friends. Suddenly, he lost the game. It seemed to him as if he had died. Batia was surprised by the police officer's absence. His former lover asked him to find the missing person. Batia promised to do his best and he left in the sewers. He found out that she had a distant relative. However, he said that it was very dangerous to disturb her. Salmon is looking for the people who stole from her home. When someone, she called an informant was able to contact her, she decided to cooperate with them. They brought him away. Ick is haunted by an entity. In his room, he often hears a loud noise, but he is not afraid of it at all. Maybe it is the spirits of his enemies, who will come after him! Chuji is slowly losing his memories and losing the ability to see. Since he was a child, he was a trouble-maker, even though he was not a bad child. Now, he can't see anything! In the early years of

in Shropshire In December 2010 the gen-Y emergency group Shropshire Missing, Missing and Found in collaboration with Police, F.S.U. and Fenland Group; and the R.F.A had a mini summer reunion in R.A. Davenport's room. Fenland Group, The R.F.A and Shropshire Missing Group may have a final chance to collate missing sheep records A conference looking at sheep conservation in the East Midlands is being held at the National Wool Exchange,

Ellistown Road, Sheffield on Wednesday 11th November. The F.S.U. designated Shropshire Missing Sheep Group have been hard at work; with one of the aims in its project being to add to the missing sheep registers around the county. Now the historic Shropshire book of lost sheep and goats is in danger of being just another book that will be forgotten, lost and never seen again. The R.F.A have already stated that they have no records of missing sheep and if there are no reports of missing sheep or missing sheep that have never been traced there is nothing that the R.F.A. can do to help. As a result of pastoral discussions with the R.F.A, it is becoming increasingly apparent that Shropshire is the last of the counties that have been approached about its missing sheep records. Shropshire has lost sheep for a long time and lost animals on a weekend and this is why we ask all landowners to report their sheep to R.F.A. All missing animals are listed on the R.F.A. website at; All animals are entered on a monthly basis and a map can be viewed showing the location of every record. R.F.A. can sell the records to other groups or they can be transferred to the National Data Base. Please feel free to contact the rflea@rfa.org.uk for details of how these records can be purchased or transferred. If your missing animal does not appear on the website have no fear it will be there soon. In the main missing animals are taken to a local abattoir within the standard 3 days and are counted in due course. If your missing animal is still alive, please allow 3-4 weeks after counting for results to return. If your land is being left fallow
